REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly until 8:15 AM. I taught resume writing to the intermediate class, tenses to matric students, and the poem "Do Not Quit" to the first-year class. Rather than relying on the book, I explained the concepts in my own words. I also taught compare-and-contrast essay writing to Classes 9-A and 9-B. During my lessons, I encouraged student-centered learning by involving students in practical written tasks, including coming to the board and working in groups where appropriate. At the end of the day, I discussed my progress and next tasks with my host teacher.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that students can understand concepts better when I explain them in simple words and involve them directly in the lesson. Board work and group writing gave students a chance to practise what they were learning. I also learned that I need to prepare my lesson more carefully so the class moves from one point to the next with a better rhythm and flow.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare the main points of each lesson in advance, plan how to move smoothly between explanations and written practice, and make sure the activities match the topic and students' level.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. I continued teaching "Do Not Quit" to the first-year class, tenses to matric students, essay writing to Classes 9-A and 9-B, and resume writing to the intermediate class. I explained the topics conceptually and involved students in written practice where suitable. At the end of the day, my host teacher asked me to check students' copybooks and invited me to the Saturday staff meeting.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that clear conceptual explanations and written practice can help students work through a topic step by step. Checking copybooks also helped me understand students' written work and the areas where they may need more guidance. I need to prepare more thoroughly so my explanations and classroom tasks follow a smooth sequence.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will organize the copybooks before checking them, note common errors, and prepare the key points for my next lesson so I can teach with a clearer rhythm and flow.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM. We held our first Saturday meeting starting at 8:00 AM and finished at 11:00 AM. In this meeting, we discussed our classroom settings and students with the teachers. We also discussed bringing changes into our methodologies, curriculums, lesson plans, and the provided syllabus.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned how teachers work together in meetings to review classroom environments, update teaching methods, and align lesson plans with the provided syllabus to improve student learning.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will apply the updated teaching methodologies and planned syllabus changes directly in my daily lesson plans and classroom teaching.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. I taught compare-and-contrast essay writing to Classes 9-A and 9-B, resume writing to the intermediate class, and the past perfect tense to matric students. I also reviewed essay writing and introduced types of reading and reading strategies to Class 9-B. In writing lessons, I used practical tasks, including board work and group writing where suitable, to involve students in learning. I asked students for feedback and discussed the next day's tasks with my supervisor.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that student-centered learning gives students an opportunity to practise a concept instead of only listening to an explanation. Board work and group writing helped connect the lesson to practical work. Feedback from students and my supervisor also helped me think about how to improve my teaching.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare the lesson points and written tasks beforehand, decide how to introduce and practise each concept, and use feedback to improve the next lesson.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. My schedule included Class XI (First Year), Class IX-A, Class X (Matric), the intermediate class, and Class IX-B. I taught the assigned topics and focused on students' conceptual understanding. I then met my supervisor to discuss my self-assessment, student progress, and next steps.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that teaching different classes in one day requires preparation and a clear plan. Reflecting on students' understanding helped me recognize the importance of explaining concepts in simple steps and giving students suitable written practice. I also need to make my transitions between lessons smoother.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare a short plan for each class, arrange the topics in a logical order, and note which concepts may need extra explanation or practice.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM. Following our second Saturday schedule, we held our monthly meeting from 8:00 AM to 11:00 AM. In this meeting, we described our monthly progress and focused on paper settings for the upcoming monthly papers and examination review.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned how monthly staff meetings help teachers evaluate student performance, structure monthly exam papers, and ensure test questions align properly with the covered syllabus.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will keep my syllabus records clear and prepare sample questions in advance so monthly paper settings run smoothly.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. I taught "Icarus and Daedalus" to the intermediate class, exercises on "Do Not Quit" to the first-year class, essay writing to Class 9-A, and tenses to matric students. I finished with essay writing practice in Class 9-B. My host teacher gave me feedback, assigned copy checking, and explained what to prepare for the next day.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that teaching different subjects and classes requires me to prepare each lesson carefully. Explaining concepts in my own words and giving students written practice helped me focus on their understanding. My host teacher's feedback and copy checking also helped me see where students may need further support.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will organize the copybooks before checking them and prepare the main teaching points for each class so I can explain the topics in a smoother, more connected way.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. I continued teaching "Icarus and Daedalus" to the intermediate class and "Do Not Quit" to the first-year class. I taught essay writing to Class 9-A, active and passive voice to matric students, and essay writing to Class 9-B. Later, we held a staff meeting to review student progress and academic performance.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that teachers can identify students' learning needs by reviewing their progress together. I also recognized that I should prepare my own lessons carefully and keep track of which concepts students understand and which need more explanation.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare clear lesson notes and keep brief records of students' progress, while planning the order of explanations and written practice to improve the flow of my teaching.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM. We held a staff room meeting on this Saturday from 8:00 AM to 11:00 AM. During the meeting, feedback was collected from us regarding student learning progress and how the students are learning. After the meeting ended at 11:00 AM, we started checking the monthly papers that were given.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned the importance of collaboratively sharing feedback on student progress and evaluating student learning through thorough paper checking immediately after meetings.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will maintain clear records of student learning patterns and common errors identified during paper checking to address them in future lessons.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. I taught "The Seven Ages of Man" to the intermediate class, pronoun-antecedent agreement to the first-year class, and poem summaries to matric students. In the matric class, students gave presentations on the poem summaries. I also taught active and passive voice to Classes 9-A and 9-B. At the end of the day, I discussed my progress and next tasks with my host teacher.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that conceptual explanations can help students understand literature and grammar, while presentations on poem summaries give matric students an opportunity to share their understanding. I also learned that I need to prepare the lesson sequence in advance so the class has a smoother rhythm and flow.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare the key points and examples before class, give students clear instructions for written work or presentations when needed, and make the transition between lesson stages smoother.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. I continued teaching "The Seven Ages of Man" to the intermediate class, reviewed pronoun agreement with the first-year class, and practised active and passive voice with Classes 9-A and 9-B. At the end of the day, I reviewed the day's work with my host teacher.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that revisiting concepts and giving students written practice can help strengthen their understanding, especially in grammar. I also learned that good preparation helps me explain the topic in a clear order and maintain a smoother flow throughout the class.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare the main rules and examples in advance and organize the practice questions from simple to more challenging, so students can follow the lesson step by step.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I arrived at school at 7:50 AM. On our third Saturday meeting schedule, we spent from 8:00 AM to 11:00 AM preparing our school for the upcoming Parent-Teacher Meeting (PTM). Afterwards, on Friday, school ended early at 12:00 PM, and I stayed two extra hours. Because my handwriting is good, I was called to decorate and prepare notice boards and displays for the school.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned how teamwork and preparation contribute to successful school events. Utilizing my handwriting skills for board decoration taught me how teachers contribute to the school's visual environment.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will make sure all notice boards, displays, and student portfolios are fully prepared and organized before the parents arrive.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I prepared my lessons at home and arrived at school at 7:50 AM. I attended the morning assembly from 8:00 AM to 8:15 AM. I taught exercises on "The Seven Ages of Man" conceptually to the intermediate class, keeping the book aside and explaining the ideas in my own words. I taught pronoun-antecedent agreement to the first-year class and summaries of "Little Things" and "The Man Who Wins" to matric students. In the matric class, students presented their poem summaries. I also practised active and passive voice with Classes 9-A and 9-B. Because a teacher was absent, I took an extra period. At the end of the day, my host teacher gave me the topics for the next day.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that putting the book aside and explaining a poem conceptually can help me focus on students' understanding. The matric students' presentations also showed me how students can share what they have learned. Taking an extra period reminded me that I should be ready to adjust my plan when needed.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will prepare the main ideas, examples, and written tasks before class, and plan the order of activities carefully so I can teach with better rhythm and flow.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

I prepared my lessons at home and arrived at school at 7:50 AM for the morning assembly. We continued practising exercises on "The Seven Ages of Man" conceptually, with the book aside and explanations focused on the poem's ideas. Later, I practised active and passive voice with Classes 9-A and 9-B. At the end of the day, I met my host teacher to review my progress and complete final preparations for the Parent-Teacher Meeting.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned that explaining main ideas in my own words and revising them through practice supports student learning. Preparing at home helps me stay organized and deliver structured explanations.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

I will organize all materials for the Parent-Teacher Meeting in advance so I can fulfill my responsibilities smoothly.

REFLECTIVE LOG

REFLECTION OF THE DAY

Today was the final day of my internship. I arrived at school at 7:50 AM and attended the morning assembly. We hosted our Parent-Teacher Meeting on this last Saturday, which took six hours. I coordinated with student prefects and monitors to welcome parents and manage the event, successfully completing my internship.

WHAT DID I LEARN TODAY?

I learned valuable lessons in event management, leadership, and school administration. Managing a 6-hour parent-teacher meeting taught me how coordination, teamwork, and advance planning lead to successful school operations.

WHAT CAN I DO DIFFERENTLY TOMORROW?

As my internship has completed, I will carry forward these teaching and organizational skills into my future teaching career, ensuring clear planning and strong communication in all educational roles.
